Study Abroad

Cambridge Summer Session – June 21 - July 30, 2010 (dates approximate)

The Cambridge Summer Session is a fully ABA accredited program in association with Downing College of Cambridge University, England, and the University of Mississippi Law School, the University of Arkansas-Fayetteville School of Law, the University of Tennessee College of Law, and the University of Nebraska College of Law. Classes which will be offered are:

UNL Professor - Rick Duncan

Religion and the Constitution – The focus of this course is on religious liberty under the First Amendment of the United States Constitution. We will focus extensively on the history and jurisprudence of the Establishment Clause, the Free Exercise Clause, and on governmental regulation of religious speech and the impact of the Free Speech Clause. We will also focus on some comparative approaches to religious liberty, with a particular focus on the French doctrine of “laicite” and its guarantee of very strict separation between religion and the state.

Other courses: TBA.

Classes are 1 hour and ten minutes, four days per week, Monday through Thursday. There are social events and a group tour to London Inns of Court, Courts, and other points of legal interest.

Complete information will be available in December. In the meantime, please feel free to discuss the Cambridge Summer Program more fully with Dean Shavers or Professors Denicola, Gardner, Gradwohl, Potuto, Snowden and Works, who have taught at Cambridge the past.

Some Things Worth Knowing

Graduation Requirements

In order to graduate, you must satisfactorily complete 93 semester hours. It is possible for a student to graduate in 2 ½ years by attending summer school after his or her first or second year of law school or both. A student cannot graduate any earlier than 2 ½ years after starting law school at the College of Law.

Students who graduate early are responsible for six semesters of the Law College Fee. You will pay the sixth semester fee in your last semester at the Law College.

Transfer students must complete at least 45 graded hours at the College of Law to be eligible for degrees with honors.

All students are expected to attend the Law College full-time and take 12-15 hours a semester. All students must attend at least five academic year semesters and take at least 12 hours each semester. You must have permission to take fewer than 12 hours or more than 15 hours (or five courses) in a semester. Permission cards are available from the Registrar and must be signed by Associate Dean Pierce before you register. In order to take more than 15 hours or five courses in a semester, you must not be on academic probation and you must have a cumulative grade point average of at least 5.0. If you take fewer than 12 hours, your loans from the University will be reduced because you will be paying less tuition.

All students are required to attend classes regularly and to prepare all assigned work thoroughly. Inadequate class attendance or preparation may result in the student being dropped from the course or may adversely affect the final grade the student receives in the course.

Under ABA rules, students may not work more than 20 hours per week.

Although you are free, for the most part, to choose which courses to take during your second and third years, there are some requirements and limitations of which you should be aware. Those requirements and limitations are as follows:

- (1) You must take a seminar that has a substantial writing requirement. The seminar may be taken at any point during your second or third years. The seminars offered during the spring semester (see the enclosed Upperclass Course Listing) will satisfy this requirement. Most seminars are limited to 12 students and lotteries are conducted every spring for all seminars to be offered the following year.

Psycholegal Research does not satisfy the seminar requirement, except when taken by a student enrolled in the Law/Psychology joint degree program.

Research in a Selected Field does not satisfy the seminar requirement, unless

- (a) taken by a student during his/her last semester at the College of Law;
- (b) all seminars offered that semester are full; and
- (c) the student has received permission from Associate Dean Pierce.

- (2) You must take a course in Professional Responsibility. Legal Profession, offered in the spring semester, meets this requirement.

- (3) You must take an upper level professional skills course in order to graduate. The courses that meet this requirement are:
Advanced Legal Research

Advanced Trial Advocacy
Appellate Advocacy
Business Planning
Client Interviewing & Counseling
Clinical Practice - Civil
Clinical Practice - Criminal
Construction Practice
Externships (if approved by Dean Shavers)
Family Law Practice
Mediation
Negotiations
Pretrial Litigation
Trial Advocacy

- (4) Unless a student is enrolled in a joint degree program, a student may not receive more than 12 hours of total credit from courses in Externship, Research in a Selected Field, and non-law school courses.

The Clinical Courses

Under the Nebraska Supreme Court's Senior Practice Rule, only those students with senior standing who have been selected by lottery are eligible to enroll in Civil or Criminal Clinic. Senior standing is achieved upon satisfactory completion of 60 credit hours.

Civil Clinic –

- Enrollment limited to 16 students, selected by lottery
- Pre- or Co-requisite - Pretrial Litigation
- Preference will be given to students registered in the Litigation Skills Program of Concentrated Study and who have taken Trial Advocacy

Criminal Clinic –

- Enrollment limited to 8 students, selected by lottery
- Prerequisite - Trial Advocacy
- Preference will be given to students registered in the Litigation Skills Program of Concentrated Study

Only those students who were selected by the lottery last spring or have otherwise received permission may register for these courses.

If you were selected in the lottery drawing for Civil Clinic or Criminal Clinic, it is considered an irrevocable commitment on your part to register in the course. Absolutely NO drops are allowed from a clinical course. This rule is different from other lottery classes.

Programs of Concentrated Study

The Program of Concentrated Study at the College of Law is designed for students who seek a particular focus during their time at the Law College. Programs of Concentrated Study have been established in Litigation Skills and Business Transactions. Information on each of these programs is available from the Registrar.

In addition, a student who wishes to focus on a particular area of the law may work with a faculty member who teaches in the area to develop an individualized Program of Concentrated Study. A Program of Concentrated Study must consist of at least fifteen credit hours in no fewer than five upper level courses that have been identified by a faculty member as central to the identified area.

A student must declare an intention to complete an Individualized Program of Concentrated Study no later than the last day on which students may add a class during the semester beginning the student's third year.

Students are encouraged to declare early to minimize problems caused by course sequencing and availability. Information on individualized Programs of Concentrated Study is available from the Registrar.

Following is a list of Individualized Programs of Concentrated Study our students have completed:

- Agricultural Law
- Alternative Dispute Resolution
- Business Entity Taxation
- Business Planning and Taxation
- Education Law
- Environmental Law
- Family Law
- Health Law
- International Law
- Labor and Employment Law
- Real Estate
- Sports Law
- Taxation and Business Planning

Non-Law College Courses

All law school work must be done in residence.

Courses may be completed at other ABA-approved law schools with the approval of the Dean or his or her designee, and credit will be given for those courses in which a grade of "4", or its equivalent at the law school attended, is received. Grades received in such courses will not be computed as part of the student's law school average for purposes of determining class standing, graduation with distinction, or eligibility for Order of the Coif.

This rule applies to graduate level courses, graduate level distance education courses that satisfy the requirements of ABA Standard 306(c), and upper-level law distance education courses that satisfy the requirements of ABA Standard 306(c) and that are offered by other ABA-approved law schools. A student may take three credit hours of such courses if the student receives approval from the faculty members of the Curriculum Committee upon a showing that (a) the courses will further the student's legal education, and (b) the courses will not duplicate courses available in the Law College. Before taking more than three credit hours of such courses, the student must also obtain the prior approval of the Dean or his or her designee. To take more than six credit hours of such courses, the student must show compelling circumstances and obtain the approval of the full faculty.

Except as part of an approved joint-degree program, a student may not receive credit for more than twelve hours of graduate level courses outside the Law College. A student may not take more than four credit hours of distance education courses per semester and may not receive credit for more than a total of twelve credit hours of distance education courses. Subject to the limitation set out above, credit toward the J.D. will be given for those courses in which a grade of "B" or above is received and for law courses in which a grade of "4", or its equivalent at the other law school offering the course, is received. Grades received in these courses will not be computed as part of the student's law school average for purposes of determining class standing, graduation with distinction, or eligibility for Order of Coif.

Students interested in taking a graduate level course for Law College credit must complete a request form which, among other things, requires the student to demonstrate that the course will further the student's legal education and will not duplicate courses available at the College of Law. Request forms for the fall semester are available from Vicki Lill in the Dean's office. Completed request forms must be received by Vicki no later than December 4, 2009.

Second Year Grade Point Averages & Academic Scholarships

Second year grade point averages and class ranks are computed when a student has completed 27 credit hours beyond the first year curriculum for a total of 60 credit hours. Academic scholarships based on second year performance are generally awarded at the end of the spring semester after second year GPAs and class ranks are determined.

Lotteries

Seminar Lottery

Lotteries for all seminars were conducted last spring. If you would like your name added to the waiting list of any spring seminars, please see Vicki Lill immediately.

Clinic Lotteries

The clinic lotteries were conducted last spring. If you are unsure of your status in the clinic lotteries, please check with Deanna or Anne in the clinic.

If you were selected in the lottery drawing, it is considered an irrevocable commitment on your part to register in the course. Absolutely NO drops are allowed from a clinical course. This rule is different from other lottery classes.

Lotteries for other courses

The following courses are lottery courses offered in the spring 2010:

Advanced Trial Advocacy
Construction Practice
Disability Law
Family Law Practice
Mental Health Law Class
Negotiations
Pretrial Litigation
Topics in Law & Psychology
Trial Advocacy A*
Trial Advocacy B & C

If you want to take one of the above courses, complete the non-clinical course lottery form, available in the rack outside of the Dean's Office.

See the calendar on page 1 of this packet for all lottery deadlines.

The course descriptions for all lottery courses offered next semester are included in this packet.

Third year students have priority in all lotteries except Trial Advocacy. Students registered in the Litigation Skills Program of Concentrated Study have priority in the Advanced Trial Advocacy lottery. Only the students whose names are drawn in the lottery may register for these courses. (Clinic lotteries were conducted last spring.)

* Trial Advocacy A - Pierce

If you are selected in the lottery for Trial Advocacy with Pierce, you MUST also take Evidence with Professor Moberly. No exceptions.

Be sure to fill out the portion of the lottery form that asks you to rank your preference in the skills sections. Failure to submit a form or rank the sections will result in you being put into whatever section has openings.

Drops are not allowed

If your name appears on the lists when the lottery results are posted, you must let the Registrar know by 4:00 pm, Thursday, November 12th, if you decide not to register for the course or seminar. If you do not inform her by that date and time, you will be required to register for the course. No drops of lottery courses will be allowed after November 12th unless you receive permission from the faculty member teaching the course and Associate Dean Pierce. Lottery selections for the Civil and Criminal Clinics are an exception to this procedure.

If you attempt to drop a lottery course without permission, you forfeit priority on all future lotteries at the College of Law.

Drops are not allowed from the clinical courses. If your name was selected for one of the clinics, you may not change your mind, and you must take the clinic.

Some Planning Tips

All Students

1. Course Selection

If you have questions about which courses to take, you should discuss your course selections with your faculty advisor. Your advisor or any member of the faculty, will be more than happy to work with you to develop a schedule that best suits your individual interests and professional needs. In addition, many faculty members have prepared information on course offerings in particular areas. The information is available on the website under Current Students, Academics, Upperclass Curriculum.

The coordinator for the Business Transactions Program of Concentrated Studies is Professor Bill Lyons. The coordinator for the Litigation Skills Program of Concentrated Study is Professor Kevin Ruser.

2. Limitations

Non-joint degree students may not take more than 12 total credit hours of Externship, Research in a Select Field and non-law school courses.

3. Finals Schedule

In deciding which courses to take, one of the many factors you should consider is the final examination schedule you will be creating for yourself. The tentative spring 2010 final exam schedule is included in this packet. Although anything could happen, we currently do not foresee making any changes in the schedule.

Under the rules and regulations of the College of Law, you will be permitted to take a final exam at a time other than the regularly scheduled time only if:

- (1) you have two examinations on the same day;
- (2) you have four consecutive examinations on four consecutive examination days (i.e., Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday – not Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Monday); or
- (3) you experience a serious illness or other special circumstances beyond your control that affect your capacity to take the exam at the regularly scheduled time. Examples of "other special circumstances" include the death of an immediate family member, a car accident, birth of a child, a religious conflict with Saturday exams, and a conflict with a non-law exam.

Rescheduled exams must be taken after the regularly scheduled exam. A student seeking to reschedule an exam must contact Associate Dean Pierce before the exam.

4. Flexible Scheduling

In the spring semester, the following courses will be taught on three days a week in one hour blocks, rather than 50 minute blocks and will meet for 35 class days instead of 42 class days over the semester:

- Constitutional Law II - Berger
- Domestic Telecommunications
- Environmental Law
- Estate Planning
- Payment Systems
- Wills & Trusts

The following classes are being taught for extra minutes each week which will allow for approximately two class periods to be cancelled:

- Business Associations
- Criminal Procedure
- Individual Income Tax
- Legal Profession

5. Variable Credit Hours

1 credit hour –

- European Regulation of Space and Telecommunications
- Introduction to European Community Law
- National Space Legislation
- Spectrum Management Law & Policy
- Style and Composition in Legal Writing
- U.S. Military Space Law

2 credit hours –

- Copyright Law
- International Business Transactions
- Law of Provider & Patient

4 credit hours –

- Business Associations
- Family Law Practice
- Individual Income Tax I

Civil Clinic will be offered with a variable of 4 or 6 credit hours.

Externship is available as a one, two or three credit hour course. It may only be taken once during the course of study at the College of Law.

A one, two or three credit Research in a Selected Field course is an option which allows you to evenly reach the 93 credit hours currently required to graduate.

6. Future Class Offerings

The following classes will not be offered in 2010-2011:

- Agricultural Environmental Law
- Copyright Law Class
(Copyright Law Seminar will be offered in spring 2011 and limited to 12 students)
- Disability Law
- Employee Benefits Law
- Farm & Ranch Tax
- Law of Provider & Patient

The following classes may not be offered in 2010-2011:

- American Foreign Relations & Policy Seminar
- International Business Transactions
- Securities Regulation

Second Year Students

Pretrial Litigation will be taught in the spring semester. It is a pre- or co-requisite for Civil Clinic in the spring 2010 semester. It is a prerequisite for Civil Clinic in the summer 2010, so if you plan to take Civil Clinic in the summer 2010, you must take Pretrial Litigation in the spring of 2010. It is a pre- or co-requisite for Civil Clinic in the Fall 2010 and will be offered in the fall 2010.

Evidence will next be offered during the Fall of 2010. Evidence is a pre-requisite for some sections of Trial Advocacy and students who have taken Trial Advocacy will be given preference in the Civil Clinic lottery. Trial Advocacy is a prerequisite for Criminal Clinic. Trial Advocacy is also a prerequisite for Advanced Trial Advocacy.

In addition to Evidence, Pretrial Litigation, and Trial Advocacy, the other litigation-related courses at the College include:

- Administrative Law
- Advanced Legal Research
- Alternative Dispute Resolution

- Arbitration
- Capital Punishment
- Civil Rights Litigation
- Client Interviewing and Counseling
- Conflict of Laws
- Criminal Law II (not offered in 2010-2011)
- Criminal Procedure
- Family Law Practice
- Federal Jurisdiction
- Mediation
- Negotiations
- Remedies & Damages
- Civil Clinic
- Criminal Clinic

If you have an interest in business-related matters, you should take Business Associations during your second year because the course is a pre-requisite (or co-requisite) for advanced courses such as Securities Regulation, and Business Planning.

Some classes (for example, Business Associations, Evidence and Individual Income Tax) are considered building block courses and are generally taken by second year students. As a general rule, those courses will not be scheduled against each other. If you wait until your third year to take courses that most students take during their second year, you run the risk of being locked out of other courses that you may want to take.

Although you can take a seminar during your second year (assuming you won the lottery) you should think twice before doing so. Seminars require quite a bit of work and are often more rewarding when you have taken more substantive courses first. Most students wait to take a seminar until their third year when they have priority in the lottery.

Enrollment Limitations

Although most courses at the College of Law have an enrollment limit of 80 students, some courses have lower limits. Those courses are as follows:

Course	Class limit
Advanced Legal Research	60
Advanced Trial Advocacy	12

Business Associations	70
Clinical Practice - Civil	16
Clinical Practice - Criminal	8
Construction Practice	20
Disability Law	20
Individual Income Tax	70
Legal Profession	70
Negotiations	24
Pretrial Litigation	24
Trial Ad - Pierce / Evidence - Moberly	48
Trial Advocacy - Johnson	20
Trial Advocacy - Riley	16
Wills & Trusts	70

Seminar - Seminars are limited to 12 students. Lotteries for the seminars were conducted last spring.

Clinical Courses - Clinics have limited enrollment. Lotteries for the clinic classes were conducted last spring.

Lottery Courses - See page 11 for the list of courses available through lottery only! Third year students have priority in all lotteries except Trial Advocacy.

Pretrial Litigation

If you are interested in taking Pretrial Litigation you must participate in the non-clinical course lottery. All students who plan to take Civil Clinic in the Summer 2010 term must take Pretrial Litigation in the Spring 2010 semester. All students enrolled in Pretrial Litigation will meet with Professor Klaus on Mondays for 50 minutes (the lecture component of the course). The students will be divided into small groups and each small group will meet with either Professor Klaus or an adjunct professor for two hours (the skills component of the course). An additional Skills group will be added if needed.

Seminars

All seminars are limited to 12 students. The lottery for the spring semester seminars has already taken place. Check with the Registrar if you are unsure about your status in a seminar course. Third year students planning to graduate in May must have completed the seminar requirement. If you have not yet taken a seminar, see the Registrar immediately. Second year students who are interested in taking a seminar in the Spring 2010 semester should also see the Registrar.

Trial Advocacy

There will be three sections of Trial Advocacy this spring. See page 26. Second year students will have preference in the lottery for Trial Advocacy.

Section A will be taught by Dean Pierce and adjunct faculty. The co-requisite for this section of Trial Advocacy only is Evidence with Professor Moberly.

Section B will be taught by Kile Johnson and it will be limited to 20 students. Evidence is a pre-requisite.

Section C will be taught by Eighth Circuit Judge William Jay Riley and it will be limited to 16 students. Evidence is a pre-requisite.

Odds & Ends

Course and Call Numbers

A number of courses offered at the College of Law are cross-listed with other colleges and have multiple course numbers. For example, Estate Planning has three course numbers: Law 767 (the law course number), Law 767G (the "G" course number), and Acct 967 (the Accounting course number). The course numbers you should use are as follows:

- (1) Students who are enrolled in the College of Law and who are not enrolled in any joint degree program must use the law course and call numbers.
- (2) Students who are enrolled in the College of Law and who are also enrolled in a joint degree program – for example, the Law/Psychology program or JD/MPA program – must use the G course and call numbers but only for courses that count toward both degrees.

- (3) Students who are enrolled in the MLS degree program must use the G course and call numbers. If there is no G course and call number, please see the Registrar.
- (4) Graduate students who are not enrolled in the College of Law or in the MLS degree program must obtain special permission to enroll in College of Law courses, which are available from the Registrar.

Permission Forms

Students wishing to take Research in a Selected Field or Psycholegal Research must first complete a Permission Form. This form requires the signature of the supervising faculty member and Associate Dean Pierce. Students wanting to complete an Externship must complete the Externship Proposal form before registering. This form requires the signature of the supervising faculty member and Associate Dean Pierce. Students wanting to take more than 15 credit hours (or five courses), or fewer than 12 credit hours in a semester must also obtain the approval of Associate Dean Pierce prior to registering.

The forms are available in the Registrar's Office.

Pass / Fail

Externship is the only course taught at the College of Law that may be taken as pass/fail. It may only be taken once in the course of study at the College of Law.

Incompletes

If you receive an Incomplete (I) in any course other than Psycholegal Research, the Incomplete must be removed within one year. Otherwise, the Incomplete will automatically be replaced with a failing grade ("0").

Graduate Students Taking Law College Courses

Graduate students cannot take any law courses unless they receive prior permission from the College of Law. The necessary forms for requesting that permission are available from the Registrar.

Registration Procedures

You should register for your classes on WAM, which is a first-come first-served basis with no class priority. Spring registration begins November 18 and continues until January 12. Instructions on how to use eNRoll (WAM), is included on page 25 of this packet. Any initial registration or reinstatement of a cancelled registration after classes begin will be subject to a $25 late registration fee.

eNRoll Access Hours

(For registration and drop/add)

Monday - Saturday – 7:00 a.m. to 12 midnight

Sunday – 2:00 p.m. to 12:00 midnight

Registration Period

November 18- January 11

Personal Identification Number (PIN)

In order to ensure the security of your academic information, you must use your student identification number (NU I.D. or your social security number) along with your personal identification number (PIN) to access any function in the system.

You will use the same PIN each semester and summer session until you graduate. You may continue to use the University-assigned four digit PIN or you may select one of your own choice. To change your PIN, go into WAM and under “WAM! Home”, access “Change PIN”. Follow the instructions found there.

Registration Holds

Students with registration "holds" will not be permitted to initially register or add courses (including drop/add schedule changes) until these holds are released. Registration "holds", incurred for academic, administrative or financial reasons, are placed on your record to prevent registration for classes. Holds must be cleared by the University agency or department placing the block prior to registration and you must present the Release Form from the agency or department to Student Accounts (402-472-2887), 124 Canfield Admin. Building. Note: If paid by personal check, the hold will not be removed for 3 weeks to be sure your check clears the bank. Only Master Card or Discover Card are accepted for credit card payments.

Failure by the student to pay any financial obligation owed to the College of Law or to the University or to any department, division, or agency thereof, or to clear any hold will result in denial of consideration for readmission, denial of transcripts, denial of registration for ensuing terms, withholding of diplomas and denial of grade reports until the debt is paid in full.

Closed Courses During Registration, Time Conflicts

You cannot register for a closed course on eNRoll. If you are informed that a course is full, please contact the Registrar. Also, you cannot register for two courses that meet at the same time or have overlapping meeting times. If the course is a lottery course, you may not register for the course unless you have obtained a place in the class through the lottery.

Prerequisites and Co-requisites

You are responsible for ensuring that you meet requirements for any particular course. Ignoring course pre-requisites/co-requisites can result in serious financial and academic consequences. If you do not qualify for a course in which you enroll, you will be required to drop it or you will be administratively dropped from the course.

Students with Disabilities

Students with disabilities who would like assistance with registration should contact the Registrar.

Registration Tampering

A student who tampers or attempts to tamper with the registration records of another student, including but not limited to dropping and adding classes, will be subject to disciplinary action.

Payment of Tuition and Fees

Any charges you incur for tuition, fees, University Housing, long distance telephone calls, Express Card purchases from the University Bookstore and Nebraska Union, University Health Center, and service charges from University Libraries, Parking Services, and Campus Recreation will appear on one statement. Payment can be made at the Bursar's Office, Service Counter 112F, Canfield Administration Building.

Students who register before December 13 will receive a statement of tuition and fees at their permanent address late in December. Students who are registered by January 20, 2010 will receive a statement at their local address. Full payment of the amount due must be made by February 10, 2010.

Consolidated statements will be mailed at the end of each month to students with unpaid balances and to students with new charges posted since the previous monthly statement. Payment deadlines will be posted on the statement. It is your responsibility to insure that the Records Office has your correct address. You can update your address in the Dean's Office. Fill out the Change of Address Form and return to the Registrar. We will change our records and then forward the information to downtown.

FAILURE TO RECEIVE A STATEMENT WILL NOT EXCUSE YOU FROM MEETING THE DEADLINE. Contact the Office of Student Accounts, 124 Canfield Administration Building, (402) 472-2887, if you have not received your statement by one week after the announced mailing dates.

A late payment service charge of $20 each month will be assessed to accounts if payments are not received by the deadline. Holds will be placed on the records of students with delinquent accounts. Holds will prohibit the release of transcripts, diplomas, and prohibit future enrollment, including adds and section changes, until the accounts are brought current. Students with accounts that are delinquent over one month will also lose student services such as access to the recreation center and Express Card privileges. If accounts become two months delinquent, Parking Services will be authorized to tow the vehicles of students who incur parking fines. Tuition and fees can be paid by Discover or MasterCard.

Late Registration - January 11 - 19

During Late Registration, students will be charged a $25 late registration fee. This fee will appear on your first billing for tuition.

Change of Address Form

If your local, permanent, or parents' address has changed since you entered the University or last submitted a Change of Address Form to the Dean's Office, you must fill out a change of address form or send a email to our Registrar, Vicki Lill at vlill2@unl.edu. The forms are available in the rack outside of the Dean's Office. Please return the form to the Registrar so that we can change our records as well as correct the downtown system. Changing your information on WAM does not change your information at the College of Law.

E-mail Addresses

All students are required to register an e-mail address with the University. This e-mail address must be kept current and may be updated through the WAM system (wam.unl.edu), however, if you change your e-mail address, be sure to notify Vicki Lill in the Registrar's Office. Changing your information on WAM does not change your information at the College of Law. It will be used for all official purposes and students should regularly check with e-mail account for official information and notifications.

Change of Name Form

Name changes can now be processed at the Law College with the proper identification or paperwork and will then be forwarded downtown. See the Registrar.

Drop / Add / Withdrawals

After initially registering for classes, you are free to adjust your schedule by adding and dropping courses whenever the NRoll or eNRoll systems are available. Course drops and adds can be accomplished during the Open Registration period.

Course Adds

The deadline for adding courses is January 16. Any adds after this point require the written permission of the instructor and Associate Dean Pierce. Late adds are by exception only. The necessary forms are available from the Registrar.

Course Drops

Upperclass students who wish to drop a course from their schedule may continue to do so on WAM through January 19, provided that, after dropping the course, they are still taking twelve (12) or more hours of law courses. To drop below 12 hours, a student must receive prior permission from Associate Dean Pierce.

Courses dropped through January 22 will be removed from the student's transcript record.

Students wishing to drop a class after Jan. 22 must see Dean Pierce and obtain permission from the instructor. A student may request permission to drop a class at any time before the final exam for the course. These late drops will show with a grade of "W" on your academic record.

The following chart shows the percentage of tuition you will be charged for any courses you drop during the semester:

% of Tuition Charged	Drop Deadlines
0%	by January 19
25%	January 20-22
50%	January 23-January 29
75%	January 30-February 5
100%	after February 5

Failure to attend classes does not constitute proper notification of a drop and you will continue to be responsible for the course or courses on your schedule until you formally drop the class. A drop becomes effective for tuition and grade purposes on the date the transaction is processed through the NRoll system, or the date the form is filed with Associate Dean Pierce. Students who file proper notices of course drops or withdrawals are entitled to refunds of tuition, Law College Fees, and University Program and Facilities Fees (UPFF) in accordance with the above schedule.

Late Drops (After January 19)

Drops may not be performed on WAM during the late drop period. All such drops must be performed in person at the Law College. The student must receive the permission of the instructor and Associate Dean Pierce to drop a course – regardless of the number of hours the student is taking.

Any courses dropped during the Late Drop Period will appear on your University and Law College transcripts as a withdrawal ("W"). Students wishing to drop a class after Jan. 22 must see Dean Pierce and obtain permission from the instructor. A student may request permission to drop a class at any time before the final exam for the course.

Special Service Fees

A special service fee will be assessed for:

- Registering for classes ($20.00).
- Processing an initial registration during the Late Registration period ($25.00)
- Late payment of tuition and fees ($20.00 each month).
- NCard (I.D. Card) replacement ($20.00).
- Graduation application ($25.00).
- ▶ International student fee ($35.00)
- ▶ Returned Check Fee ($30.00)

Advanced Legal Research	4628 4629	Law 733 Law 733G	W-Th	3:15-4:30 pm	Leiter
--------------------------------	---------------------	----------------------------	-------------	---------------------	---------------

(3 credit hours) The purpose of the course is to give students deeper, more intimate exposure to the field of legal research. While the emphasis will be on practical skills, the course also endeavors to teach students the nature of, and philosophies surrounding, the organization and production of both electronic and traditional materials. After the course, a student should be able to analyze any research problem in terms of the types of materials that may be of best use in answering the question. Students will be required to do a number of short assignments and, either, a take home final or a final project.

Advanced Trial Advocacy	4665	Law 782	T	4:30-7:30 pm	Wittler/Barry
--------------------------------	-------------	----------------	----------	---------------------	----------------------

(3 credit hours) Students will perform simulation exercises concerning advanced trial advocacy topics including, among others, jury selection, expert witnesses, problem witnesses, development of a trial theme and multi-party litigation. Students will perform simulated bench and jury trials and will represent clients in mock cases selected to provide the students with a courtroom experience. ( Enrollment limit 12 students). Prerequisite: Trial Advocacy.

Agricultural Environmental Law	9154 9050	Law 722 Law 722G	M-T	3:00-4:15 pm	Schutz
---------------------------------------	---------------------	----------------------------	------------	---------------------	---------------

(3 credit hours) An examination of environmental law in a resource-intensive industry: agriculture. The course will cover the Clean Water Act as it applies to agriculture, the environmental and conservation provisions of the farm program, and other areas where environmental concerns (and often regulation) interact with modern agricultural production. Time permitting, we will consider the ability of agricultural lands to produce environmental amenities for regulatory purposes or general consumption, including agriculture's role in cap-and-trade approaches to regulating carbon emissions.

(3 credit hours) This course is a study of the First Amendment, focusing on the free speech clause and the religion clauses (free exercise and establishment). As time permits, it will also include other related topics in constitutional litigation, including the state action doctrine and Congress's power to legislate pursuant to section 5 of the Fourteenth Amendment.
Construction Practice	4573 4574	Law 617 Law 617G	M	4:30-7:30 pm	Overcash
(3 credit hours) An in-depth study of the construction process as an example of the initiation, administration and termination of a relational contract. Based on an actual project, topics include practice in the drafting of contracts, analysis of the performance of the contracting parties, and the resolution of disputes between the parties. Enrollment limit 20
Copyright Law	9184 9043	Law 711 Law 711G	M-T	1:30-2:45 pm	Denicola
(2 credit hours) A course on the protection of literary, musical, artistic, and audiovisual works under the laws of Copyright and Unfair Competition. Topics include the standards for copyright protection; procedural issues including copyright notice, registration, and duration; rules governing copyright infringement and fair use; and issues arising from digital technologies, including the distribution of copyrighted works over the Internet and the use of technological measures to protect copyrighted works. Copyright Law is a two-credit course. Students who wish an additional credit hour may also enroll for one credit of Research in a Selected Field with Professor Denicola. Students who select this option will be required to write a research paper in addition to fulfilling the requirements for the Copyright Law course. If you have taken Copyright Seminar, you cannot take Copyright Law class.

Disability Law	9198	Law 727	W-Th	3:15-4:30 pm	Lucas
(3 credit hours) Disability Law takes a civil rights approach to studying laws relating to individuals with disabilities. To that end, the course examines American law that protects individuals with disabilities in the areas of employment, public accommodations (i.e., privately operated facilities open to the public), governmental services and programs, education (K-12), higher education, and housing. Students will study the Americans with Disabilities Act, Rehabilitation Act, Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, Family and Medical Leave Act, and Fair Housing Act. In learning disability law, students will have the opportunity to put their knowledge to use through in-class exercises such as a summary judgment exercise and a client counseling exercise. Enrollment limit 20
Domestic Telecommunications Law	9186 9045	Law 726 Law 726G	W-Th-F	1:00-2:00 pm	Ammori
(3 credit hours) This course addresses the legal framework applied in the United States to telecommunications and media, including the Internet, landline telephone, cable television, broadcast and satellite radio and television, and mobile technologies. We will focus on Internet regulatory issues because the Internet has emerged as the leading communications infrastructure of our time and because the US government is in the process of devising a comprehensive "national broadband plan" for high-speed Internet. In focusing on the Internet, we will be informed by the history of regulations imposed on other communications infrastructures and will also cover Internet issues such as copyright and privacy. The course will explore a wide range of factors affecting current law, including economic, technological, and democratic concerns. We will also explore a range of laws, including regulatory, statutory, and constitutional, that have shaped these media. In doing so, we will cover not just "black letter" law, but also address what the law "should" be, based on a range of arguments and considerations, exploring the current policy and academic debates. Grade based on exam.

(3 credit hours) This course is designed to provide the student with an understanding of the issues that a business may encounter in cyberspace. Students will assist an "online business client" with recommendations on issues related to setting up shop on the internet, protecting commercial identity online and a limited number of privacy concerns. A variety of current topics will be discussed in the course, including, electronic contracting, internet auctions, taxing the internet, digital signatures, basic online licensing issues, electronic payments, lending in the information age, jurisdiction and dispute resolution. Students will be encouraged to monitor legal sources for current developments in this area, so Blackboard participation is required. Students are not required to be "tech-savvy" to enroll in this course.

(3 credit hours) An introduction to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, the federal law governing employee benefit plans sponsored by private employers. An applied problem method of instruction with emphasis on questions, issues, and problems involving employee benefit plans likely to arise in a general litigation or business transaction practice. Course coverage also includes selected provisions of Chapter 400 of the Internal Revenue Code governing qualified retirement plans.

Environmental Law	9201 9054	Law 641 Law 641G	M-T-W	11:00-12 noon	Zellmer

(3 credit hours) An introduction to American Environmental Law. The course will examine the theoretical and scientific underpinnings of environmental policy as well as specific federal laws designed to control water and air pollution or assign liability for toxic cleanups. Issues are viewed from several perspectives, including those of regulated businesses, environmental activists, and government agencies. No prior experience with environmental issues is required. All scientific and regulatory concepts will be presented in a straightforward, understandable manner. The course will be valuable not only to students with a specific interest in environmental law but also to those wanting to gain knowledge and skills essential to the successful representation of clients in any regulatory setting.

European Regulation of Space and Telecommunications	4668	Law 786	See chart, page 5		vonderDunk

(1 credit hour) This course deals with two inter-related topics. The first relates to the interaction between the EC/EU and the European Space Agency in particular in the development of European space activities and policies, with due attention to such other players as EUTELSAT and EUMETSAT, up to and including the discussions on their institutional integration. Also the development of such trans-European space projects as Galileo and Kopernikus projects will pass scrutiny. The second deals with the way in which the EC has, since roughly 20 years, started to apply its general legislative and regulatory competencies in the area of the most prominent sector of commercial space which is satellite communications, as a key area within the larger area of telecommunications. Here, the gradual development of an Internal Market for satcom services will provide the focal point. This course is only open to those that have followed the Introduction into EC law class of the second semester.

(3 credit hours) This course is a study of the rules of evidence and a more philosophical reflection on the pursuit of factual truth as an ideal of the trial. The course covers the traditional range of evidence doctrine, including relevance, hearsay, witness examination, expert testimony, privilege, and exhibits, with a focus on the Federal Rules of Evidence. Students will study evidence rules and concepts by analyzing the evidentiary issues that arise in problems based on two comprehensive case files from the National Institute for Trial Advocacy (NITA). This class is only available to those students selected in the lottery this fall for Dean Pierce's section of Trial Advocacy. Both courses will be taught from the same core of case files and the sequence of topics and materials are carefully coordinated to be mutually reinforcing. Co-requisite: Trial Advocacy-A with Dean Pierce.

(3 credit hours) This course will focus on national and international regimes for regulating telecommunications and media communications by wire (cable, phone and fiber) and by air (satellite, broadcast, wireless). The class will include both "wanted" transmissions, like phone calls, and "unwanted" transmissions, like international cyberwar and cyberterrorism attacks. The course will introduce students to international lawmaking through the International Telecommunications Union, World Trade Organization, and under the laws of armed conflict. We will discuss jurisdiction among different international and national bodies and conflicts among nation states. We will also explore historical regulation and how the convergence between telephone, television and computer services can upset existing regulatory apparatuses. In addition, we will engage in some comparative analysis of different nations' communications policies and discuss telecommunications in developing nations. We will discuss international satellite regulation in some depth. Finally, we will discuss international Internet regimes (or the lack thereof), including regulation of Internet interconnection and domain-name addressing. Grade based on exam.
Introduction to European Community Law	4666 4667	Law 785 Law 785G	See chart, page 5		vonderDunk
(1 credit hour) This course will provide an overview of the development of European Community law from the origins of the EEC, right through the latest developments such as the establishment of the European Union and the current transition from the failed Constitutional Treaty to the new Reform Treaty. In doing so, the unique character of the EC/EU as a half-way house between a classical intergovernmental organization and a federal state will be explained, as well as the respective roles of the Council, the European Commission, the European Parliament and the European Court of Justice in the process of law-making - Regulations, Directives and Decisions - at the European level. Major substantive elements of EC law, such as the freedom of movement of goods, services, person and capital and the competition regime will also be briefly discussed. The course is open to anyone interested in a fundamental understanding of EC law, whether with a view to space activities or more broadly speaking.

(3 credit hours) A systematic study of the principles of professional responsibility governing the practice of law in the United States. This course meets the faculty’s requirement for a course in professional responsibility.
Legislation: Public Policy and Statutory Interpretation	9176	Law 728	Th-F	10:30-11:45 am	Berger
(3 credit hours) This course provides an introduction to the legislative process, with particular attention to issues that inform statutory interpretation. We will begin with a statutory case study, tracing the story of how a federal statute is considered, adopted, and subsequently interpreted by courts. We will then examine theories and canons of statutory interpretation. We will also explore, among other things, the use of legislative history in statutory interpretation, the interaction of common law and statutes, the rule of lenity, the constitutional avoidance canon, deference to agency interpretations of statutes, and various textual canons of statutory construction.
This course aspires to be both highly practical and jurisprudential. It will be practical in that lawyers work with statutes all the time, and this course will provide a comprehensive approach to wrestling with the problems that arise during statutory interpretation. It will be jurisprudential in that it asks students to explore what materials and arguments judges should use when interpreting legislative enactments in light of the legislature’s public policy goals, and in light of the legislature’s and judiciary’s distinctive roles.

Topics include vertical distribution of governmental powers, theories of allocating governmental power, and recent problems in the operation and administration of local government. State constitutional law issues arise throughout our consideration of these topics.
Mental Health Law Class	9215 9216	Law 763 Law 763G	M	4:30-6:30 pm	Schopp
(3 credit hours) The course is taught concurrently with Mental Health Law Seminar (Law 772/G). It addresses the major areas of law in which people with psychological disorder are treated differently than people who do not suffer such impairment. The law treats disordered people differently than people without psychological impairment for a variety of civil and criminal purposes.
This course addresses both civil and criminal issues that are likely to arise in practice. These include: civil competence for a variety of purposes; civil guardianship and conservatorship; civil commitment; confidentiality and privilege; health care provider liability in the context of mental health care; competence to proceed at several stages of the criminal process; criminal responsibility; and criminal sentencing. The course does not presuppose or require any prior training in psychology. Each student chooses whether to take an exam or write a paper. Students who have previously taken, or are currently enrolled in, Mental Health Law Seminar (Law 772/G) may not enroll in this course. Enrollment limit 8

(1 credit hour) In view especially of the increasing commercialisation and privatisation of space activities and their applications, there is an increasing need at the national level to implement the international space treaties and some other international space law, notably by means of the establishment of national space legislation, including licensing regimes dealing for example with liability issues, or other control mechanisms. Thus, the course will discuss the various ways in which countries across the world have chosen, or are choosing, to implement relevant international requirements as well as to assert national space policies by means of such national law. A prominent place in this context will be taken by discussion of national US law on such activities as satellite communications, satellite remote sensing and space tourism. This course is only open to those that have followed the Space law class of the first semester.

National Trial Team	4571	Law 606			Pierce/Moberly

(1-2 credits) Students who are members of the College's National Trial Team shall receive two hours of ungraded academic credit during the spring semester if they perform all of their obligations as members of the National Trial Team that semester. A student who is a member of the National Trial Team during two different academic years may receive one hour of ungraded academic credit during the spring semester of the second academic year during which the student is a member of the team. A student may not receive credit for both National Trial Team and Advanced Trial Advocacy.

Negotiations	4630 4631	Law 740 Law 740G	T	6:40-9:40 pm	Landis

(3 credit hours) This class will examine a variety of negotiation styles and give students an opportunity to apply these styles in a series of increasingly complex negotiation problems. Students will be expected to complete a journal which relates class discussions, lectures, readings, and personal experiences into a guide book for future negotiation practice. Negotiation problems will include plea bargains, personal injury cases, commercial negotiations, and labor management disputes. Strategic and psychological factors present in negotiation styles will be examined. The purpose of the class is to improve negotiation performance and broaden the repertoire of strategic and stylistic choices available to the student negotiator. Enrollment limit 24

Payment Systems is a course designed to provide the student with an overview of a number of domestic and international payment systems. The course will include a study of the traditional concepts such as negotiability, holder-in-due-course status and the check processing system. In addition, students will examine a number of modern payment systems, including credit cards, debit cards, ACH transactions, wire transfers, letters of credit. One of the primary goals of the course is to improve the student's ability to interpret and apply a variety of state and federal statutes and rules. In addition, using the problem-method, students will have an opportunity to view the impact of the rules and policies from the perspective of a merchant, consumer and financial institution.

(1 credit hour) This course will cover the basic governing law and policy behind the primary spectrum management debates. It will include coverage of the FCC/NTIA split jurisdiction over spectrum, Title III of the Communications Act, and spectrum allocation and assignment issues including auctions, licensed v. unlicensed models, cognitive radios, and special spectrum considerations behind broadcast and satellite.

Style &amp; Composition in Legal Writing	4617 4618	Law 713 Law 713G	F	2:10-3:10 pm	Lawson

(1 credit hour) This is a skills course; in it we practice writing as much as we study it. We study the various causes of poor legal writing—legal writing that is unnecessarily difficult to read—and we attempt to understand what constitutes good legal writing, and what makes it work. Then we practice writing, to develop the characteristics of good writing in our own writing. More than anything else, we focus on developing clarity, coherence, and concision in legal writing. Through this class, students should develop a better understanding of the linguistic causes of good and bad legal writing, and a set of concrete writing tools for the improvement of their own writing.

Topics in Law and Psychology	4654 4655	Law 764 Law 764G	T	4:30-7:00 pm	Brank

(3 credit hours) Aging and the Law: An Interdisciplinary Approach – This is an interdisciplinary course (cross listed with the psychology department) that focuses on the legal, medical, and psychological issues surrounding the elderly. Longer life expectancies have given rise to a greater elder population, which increases the need for understanding legal issues specific to elders. In particular, this course will assist students in understanding ways they can better serve elder clients and how working with members from other disciplines will often best meet those needs.

Class meetings and discussions will focus on the legal issues and the corresponding psychological, gerontological, and medical research related to separate elder issue topics. For instance, the class will address (among other topics) intergenerational care giving and relationships, family care giving, issues related to elders' diminished capacity, surrogate decision making, elder abuse, and elder crime. For each topic, the class will examine the issue generally and then apply the social science concepts and research to relevant case law and/or statutes. Enrollment limit 15

eNroll – UNL Online Registration

eNroll is UNL's course registration system that utilizes a standard web browser to access your records. eNroll is integrated into the What About Me (WAM) home page menu. Using the facilities of eNroll you can register, drop and add courses, see a listing of your current classes, change grading options and change the number of credit hours in a variable credit class. Through WAM you can look at grades received during a previous term, review your financial aid information, check your current address listing, and update your e-mail address.

To Access WAM

1. Go to wam.unl.edu
2. Enter your Student ID Number (or SSN) and PIN in the boxes provided and then click the Login button.

This will give you access to the WAM Menu Screen.

To Access eNroll

1. Under My Registration, click on the eNroll menu item.
2. Choose the term you wish to access using the drop-down box and then click the Submit button.

You will then be presented with the eNroll Transaction Screen. This screen is divided into three main parts.

1. Current Registration shows courses in which you are currently enrolled and allows you to drop classes or change grading options.
  - To DROP a class, click on the check box labeled "Drop" for each class you wish to drop and press the Submit button to record the request.
  - To CHANGE the grading status of a class (Grade or Pass/No Pass), click the drop-down box labeled "Grade Type", choose the option you prefer and press the Submit button to record the request. If no option is provided, that means the grading system for the class is fixed.
2. Add Courses Here allows you to enter the 4-digit call number(s) of the classes you want to add to your schedule. A maximum of 8 call numbers can be entered at one time. After clicking the Submit button, the results will be displayed in the Current Registration area if successful. If you are requesting a variable credit hour class, you must specify the number of credit hours you desire. All portions of a class (lecture, recitation and/or lab) must be requested at the same time to complete a registration.
3. Your Current Student Schedule is normally viewed by scrolling down the window of your browser using the bar or arrows on the right side of the window. This area will display your current registration including the times and meeting places for all of your classes.
